

Notes on contributors

John Reynolds is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Limerick. He is also a serving Garda Sergeant based at the Garda College in Templemore, where he established the College Museum in 2002.

Luke Butterly graduated with a B.A. in History and Politics from University College Cork in 2012. He is currently pursuing an L.L.M. in Human Rights Law at Queen's University Belfast. His dissertation will focus on Israel's human rights obligations in relation to the Occupied Palestinian Territories.

Gerard Dooley has just completed an M.A. in Modern Irish History in University College Dublin with a thesis entitled 'Years of Crises, Nenagh 1914-1921'. He is currently researching his first book on a history of the parish of Camross, county Laois.

Sharon Burke is a Ph.D. candidate at the European University Institute, Florence, Italy, currently researching twentieth-century transnational Pan-Africanism in the African Diaspora under the supervision of Professor Dirk Moses.

Jutta Kruse is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Limerick. Her research interests are history of medicine, family and power. The title of her thesis is 'Medical Construction of Infancy. Ireland, 1900-1930'.

Samuel Mealy is currently studying for an M.Sc. in International Politics at Trinity College Dublin where he is also a Foundation Scholar in history and political science.

William Buck was awarded a Ph.D. in History at from the University of Limerick for research conducted at Mary Immaculate College, Limerick, in December 2012. His specialist area of research is the study of foreign nationalities and ethnic minorities in Ireland during the First World War.

Pinar Üre is a Ph.D. candidate at the London School of Economics and Political Science. Her doctoral research interests include Russian-Ottoman relations in nineteenth-century and early twentieth-century.

Call for Papers

History Studies

University of Limerick
History Society Journal

The editors of History Studies invite the submission of papers for inclusion in volume 14, 2013.

History Studies is the journal of the University of Limerick History Society and is jointly produced with the Department of History, University of Limerick. The journal is refereed by a panel of distinguished historians and is an established periodical in the field of historical scholarship.

Papers can focus on any aspect of history and should be no more than 5,000 words in length. Papers should be posted as an attachment to the email address below. For details in relation to style sheet for submissions please contact the editors.

Closing date for submission is 30 June 2013

The Editors,
History Studies,
email: history.studies@ul.ie
website: www.ul.ie/historystudies

